Createspace, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 127 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This simple little book on the economy is dedicated to my father Robert Edward White of New York, a union man, and to my Uncle Herbin Bernard Miller Jr of Minnesota, a successful capitalist businessman. I spent my life growing up between the two families. As a child I learned early how to laugh very loud and hard, even at yourself with one family and how to be quiet, proper and reserved in language, humor and dress with the other. I loved them both. Both of them love me. And both of them loved their country and knew their way was best. These men knew their job and knew how it served their villages and families and knew the sacrifice it takes to balance a village. They loved and respected each other. It is that atmosphere we need today to solve these problems. Trying to bridge that gap and being constantly tested to see which lifestyle I would chose drove me to distraction. That is probably why I became a teacher and, hopefully not, why I later became a therapist. I loved them both and had to bridge those gaps. I was very good at it very early in my life and that skill has served me well in those chosen professions of teaching and therapy. It also inspired the art and writing. As those who have read my fiction know, I love the village life . I was raised in a balanced village and it was a good childhood. I am concerned and saddened that that life may be weakening in America . So I did a little research. I said a little. I am no expert...
